

George Young's Mother in California; Would Oust His Manager

SPURNS DEALS WITH WRIGLEY; ORDERS SUIT

Instructs Attorney To Institute Action To Throw O'Byrne Out

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 2.—An attempt to break the contract which gives Henry O'Byrne, trainer and manager of George Young, 40-year-old cent of the cast of the "Tropicool" Santa Catalina channel swimmer, will be made by Mrs. Jane Young of Toronto, Ont., the youth's mother.

The plan was announced Monday by William H. Stankin, Hollywood attorney, following the arrival here yesterday of Mrs. Young. She said he would leave at once for San Francisco to see that her son have gone to meet the theatre engagements with instructions from Mr. Stankin to break the contract.

Young, 40, is the son of Bill Young, former gal of the channel swimmer who now resides, and her party in Los Angeles, on their arrival in California. Details were not given.

The plan, however, is in defiance of an ultimatum issued by Wrigley, president of the chain of 125,000-cent-a-week theatres, to Young, that he withdraw his contract with the manager to prevent his prestige made change in his management.

Young's declaration was directed particularly to Johnnie Walker of the chain, who is manager of the Victoria, B.C., theatre, who accompanied Mrs. Young to California.

Young was blamed for Mr. Walker's refusal to comply with his son's request that she meet him in San Francisco to discuss the plan.

A representative of Wrigley and Young, who is the swimmer's mother, yesterday at Barstow, Calif., and at temporary home of the chain's first official social event of the pre-tournament period.

On arrival here, Mrs. Young availed herself of the services of a maid and went into conference with her son's manager and counsel.

"I want my boy to get all the benefits possible from his success," said Mrs. Young. "I am sure that he is handled by the right people."

"I want to see my boy and I can not understand why these people do not understand that my son is on the eve of his greatest triumph. He must be in proper hands and turn his back on the wrong ones. I don't know something was wrong with everybody trying to get him money so as to keep him from his studies."

Young previously announced that he would not claim the 40 percent of the $25,000 purse as provided in his contract, but would take his percentage on the future earnings. The 40 percent cheque has not yet been cashed.

MORE ADAPT

CHINESE TROUBLE

CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE

which supervises the foreign service. There was also a meeting of the Chinese at which opposition was voiced to the plan to make the territory for the experimental forces.

Bad News

The present Chinese representative of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, north army commander defending Shandong against the Kuomintang, has been recalled by the Chinese government. The Chinese government has been informed that the war will be fought to the bitter end.

Good News

The present Chinese representative of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, north army commander defending Shandong against the Kuomintang, has been recalled by the Chinese government.

Preparations

Preparations are being made to go to the front. The men are in docks and other premises which are British-owned.

Commander Leaves

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—Bald for China with Major General Liang, north army commander, north of here, was summoned yesterday to the headquarters of the Chinese Nationalist organization and given instructions to who had fled their homes before the White River leaves.

Wang Hsien-tao, 160,000 acres of land were given to the Chinese authority on Food and Agriculture. The Chinese government has issued detailed reports of losses of lives in the White River lowlands have been confirmed or denied.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

The Chinese government has issued a statement to the effect that the British troops will not be sent to the front.

British Troops

Furnish Your Home NOW

The values offered by the February Sale of Furniture and Home Furnishings are really worth while!

Hudson's Bay Company.

INCORPORATED 2nd MAY 1670.

To Start the new season in the Hosiery Department we offer 1,600 Pairs of Women's New Hose 75c Pair

Five new lines just received ... Newest Spring Shades--Values to 1.25 pair

A scoop in the markets secured us this big lot of women's hose at a worth-while saving and we give our customers the full benefit. QUALITY hose for street, sports and every-day wear at only 75c a pair! Selling will be active, so come early. Included one will find:

Women's Silk and Wool Hose

Women's Fancy Silk and Wool Hose

Women's Fine Cashmere Hose

Women's Fancy Pure Wool Hose

Women's Silk Plated Hose

75c

See the big window displays on Jasper Ave. Come early Thursday for best choice

Main Floor, H.B.C.

75c

Continues! The advance Spring Sale Women's New Shoes

24 Styles.
All Sizes.
All Widths.

4.35 Every Pair
Extraordinary
Values

In yesterday's advertisement we explained the circumstances which enabled us to secure 1,500 pairs of women's NEW shoes at a big saving. The sale continues with rising interest.

Every pair NEW. Every pair CORRECT IN STYLE. Every pair DEPENDABLE IN QUALITY. Every pair exceptional value.

Twenty-four different styles, including: Pump, narrow one-strap slippers, new oxfords, three-eyellet ties, etc. Cuban heels, low heels and several heights in spike heels. Black satin, black, brown or maple kid, patent leather and black or brown calf. Sizes 3 to 8, in widths of A, B, C and D.

Come and examine these shoes. You'll see the wisdom of buying your new spring shoes now. Take your choice at, per pair

4.35

New Shipment of Boys' Shoes, 3.75 Pair

Black and tan calf boots, made to give the utmost in service. Made in blucher style over a square last. Every pair Goodyear welted. Every pair with rubber heels. Sizes 1 to 5½. Special value at the pair

3.75

Jasper Ave., H.B.C.

WOODS Lavender Line Combinations, Vests and Bloomers

"Lavender Line" knitted underwear provides the utmost in warmth and service. Perfectly tailored and daintily finished.

VESTS—in sleeveless and short sleeve styles.

—Wool mixture 1.25
—Fine combed cotton with silk stripe 1.25
—Wool 1.25
—Fine quality silk and wool 2.25
—Fine pure wool 2.25

—COMBINATIONS—in sleeveless or short sleeve styles—knee length.

—Heavy cotton 1.39
—Fine combed cotton with silk stripe 1.98
—Wool mixture 2.75
—Wool 2.75
—Silk and wool 3.25
—Fine pure wool 3.25

—BLOOMERS—of wool mixture with silk stripe, also pure wool. Priced at 1.49 and 1.98

Second Floor, H.B.C.

Limoges Dinner Sets

97 Pieces 37.50

—Fine quality French Limoges china dinnerware. A rich border decoration in contrasting shades of rose and brown. Will give a rich appearance to your table. Complete composition for 12 persons. 97 pieces.

Very specially priced at 37.50

WATER GOBLETS, Each 30c

—Fancy glass water goblets in grape design. Nicely polished glass. Special, each

30c

BELGIUM TABLE TUMBLERS, 12 for 1.50

—Fine Belgian glass tumblers. Standard household size. Attractive decoration. Good clear glass.

1.50

CUPS AND SAUCERS, 8 for $1

—Fancy china tea cups and saucers. 8 cups and 8 saucers $1

in floral decoration. Special

TABLE KNIVES, 3 for $1

—Oneida Community Par plate table knives. Plated blades and handles. Plain design, at

3 for $1

Third Floor, H.B.C.

New Spring Stock of H.B.C. Knitting Wool

—Complete selection of colors. High grade yarn made expressively H.B.C.

—KNITTING YARN

3 for 50c

—SUPERIOR FINGERING

2 for 45c

—DOUBLE KNITTING

2 for 30c

—SILK AND WOOL

25c

—SHETLAND FLOSS

3 for 50c

WOMEN'S HANDBAGS, 2.19

—A big assortment for your choosing. Genuine leather bags—a number made in England—leather and moire lining. Every bag an outstanding value at each

2.19

SHOPPING BAGS, at $1

—Clean-up of black keratol shopping bags. Draw style tops—a dozen fasteners. Strong handles. Special, each

$1

COAT HANGERS, 10c

—All shapes and styles in wood or wire coat and garment hangers

PANT OR SKIRT HANGERS, 5c

—Spring style. Well made. Very strong.

HICKORY PIN-ON GARTERS

—Genuine Hickory quality. Every pair guaranteed. Black or white. 2 to 4 years, at

25c

—4 to 6 years, at 30c 9 to 12 years, at 40c

—6 to 9 years, at 35c 12 to 15 years, at 45c

Main Floor, H.B.C.

DOMOLICO MOLASSES

per lb. 26c 60c

EDWARDPHILCO COIN

80c per lb. 28c 55c

EDWARDPHILCO COUNTRY

24c

EDWARDPHILCO SALMON, 5c

per lb. 30c

EDWARDPHILCO SWEET

1.75

EDWARDPHILCO SWEET

</

Edmonton Bulletin

Alberta's Oldest Newspaper

Founded in 1880 by Hon. Frank Oliver

CHARLES H. CAMPBELL, President
GEORGE H. NEIL, Vice-President
ROBERT J. NEIL, Business Manager
Published every afternoon except Sunday, by the Alberta Publishing Company, Ltd., 102nd Street and 102nd Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Subscription Rates
Delivered by Carrier 10c per week
BY MAIL IN CANADA $1.00
Three months, payable in advance $1.45
Six months, payable in advance $2.00
One year, payable in advance $5.00
Overseas $1.00
Overseas U.S.A. $1.00
One year, payable in advance $2.00

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1927

A Disappointed Donor

A lawyer in London has offered to present Edmonton with a half block of property, which he thinks must be highly valuable from the rating that is put upon it by the city assessors. He will doubtless be surprised to learn that the unappreciative city council declines his offer with thanks. The mistake that would be philanthropic was made that he kept on paying taxes on the property after years. If he had stopped, the city would have accepted his offer without his offering it. As he paid up last year, the city council shrewdly surmises that he may pay again this year; and in the circumstances council would very much rather have cash than real estate.

Town Recruits for the Farm

Proposed by the Canadian Council of the Trades and Labor Congress, the Canadian government should establish "training camps" in Canada, similar to those in operation in England, and "make an effort to colonize vacant land with recruits from the ranks of the unemployed" men in Canada.

There is a good deal to be said in support of that claim, provided there are many unemployed men in Canada who would take advantage of the opportunity to return to the soil. The entry of the Atlantic to put an idle quarter section into cultivation if a man who is out of work in Canada can be got to do the work and accept the reward. And it does seem to have been the case that the more overseas migrants we have got to go upon the land, the more the drift of Canadians from the farms to the towns, where many of them fall into unemployment.

The one reason to doubt the practicability of the suggestion is the uncertainty that any large proportion of the idle men in the centres would go farming if the Government established training camps and gave them all the other inducements to do so. Prospective immigrant. The "hook to the land," however, is not the only, but more a hope than a reality. If there is any way of stimulating among unemployed Canadians a desire to leave their position of the drift of job-hunters, to farmers it is a national mistake not to do it. The best of all possible settlement policies would be to which transplant the workless town man onto a farm, provided he wants to go there, and would work when he got there.

The Japanese Viewpoint

Japan, it is reported, is willing to make a treaty with China on a basis of exchanging favor for favor as far as equal. That, no doubt, does much to allay the apprehensions of the Chinese in demanding the same treatment from other countries.

The Washington conference came about mainly because of uncertainty abroad as to Japan's intentions toward its larger but almost helpless neighbor. A prime cause of the gathering was the Japanese occupation of one of the richest provinces in China, which is intended in some quarters as intended to be permanent, and to mark the commencement of a policy of dismemberment or systematic subjugation.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country. Japan does not need concessions, either of territory or of a judicial kind, to protect the lives and property rights of its citizens in China. It is near enough at hand to give comparative security to its "nationals" and their interests without any loss of its own from China or Canada. At least in the coastal provinces the naval and military power of Japan is well known, and it is also known that this power is close enough to exact summary retribution if Japanese or Japanese interests are mistreated. Its splendid fleet and its equally expert army are all the "concessions" Japan requires to take care of its "nationals" in China.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

Vanity

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The more I see it seems to me the trouble with us all is to grow the big pig in trial shrink too small.

For when the good Lord prospers us and happiness we take the credit to ourselves and boast about our lives.

But when our skies are overcast and plans have gone astray.

We want to know why the Lord above should punish us that way.

We fancy we were born to smile, to dance our way along.

That particular lives should be one endless round of song.

And when night is ours to know and we're discontented.

And when the day is ours to gain what we ought to gain.

But in the hour of trouble rage, We wince beneath the bogs.

And wonder why the Lord above takes vengeance on us all.

We are not prides, too little in life's storehouse that are we.

We shrink the world in arrogance when we are trouble free.

And we whimper in despair and fail in better.

forgetting that to all who live come pain and loss and grief.

Although us day by day we watched the shadows fall.

We'll be out on the Lord when we must share the fate of all.

Lord, make me bigger in my loss and smaller in my gain.

Teach me to see from these each day come both delight and pain.

Teach me to understand my tears; to know why they

That I may never cry aloud against Thy punishment.

Teach me to know that joy and grief walk ever side

Let me grow bigger in my faith, and smaller in my pride.

Lord, make me bigger in my loss and smaller in my gain.

Teach me to see from these each day come both delight and pain.

Teach me to understand my tears; to know why they

That I may never cry aloud against Thy punishment.

Teach me to know that joy and grief walk ever side

Let me grow bigger in my faith, and smaller in my pride.

What most people want is to be given results. What most people want is to be given results is a matter of indifference so long as it is done honestly.

I remember once, that a presiding elder in a small town asked me to give him a list of what a woman ought to have in the place or not with the answer.

The other side looks at the question as to whether a woman ought to have the place or not with the answer.

In many places of business a man is looked upon as of special privilege and certain classes are favored.

What most people want is to be given results. What most people want is to be given results is a matter of indifference so long as it is done honestly.

I remember once, that a presiding elder in a small town asked me to give him a list of what a woman ought to have in the place or not with the answer.

"If I send that man in there, will the place and if I don't send him and save the man."

What is a good example of care for the individual?

What is a good example of care for the individual?

The other side of civil service is to select men competent for the position, and not to give the position out.

In considering an applicant for the job, compare the qualifications of the man with the duties of that business and not his ability in some other direction.

What should be selected because he is capable of performing the duties required, and not because he is a good hand and has many kites or not has nothing to do with the case, in reality, although in position it has much to do with it.

Do You Remember?

FORTY YEARS AGO

From the Edmonton Bulletin, Saturday, January 29, 1887, the birthplace of Battelfield, C. W. Peterson of Calmar, W. B. MacLennan and F. C. Cannon of Beausejour, C. W. MacLennan and W. Smith of Qu'Appelle and T. L. West, Calgary have been enrolled as North West students.

From the records of the Kamloops Seminary.

What is going ahead in the West?

The Calgary people seem to be hard to suit in the matter of judges. Judge Travis, while a very good man, is not a good example of care for the individual.

Now it appears that certain decisions of Judge Travis in the case of the Indian maid, who was to be married to a man of means, is even spoken of. The precedent set in the case of Judge Travis of making the judicial office subject to the whims of the Indian maid, is a bad one, and the lines of strict law and justice is likely to have been violated. The Indian maid, however, is not to be blamed, for it is her right to be married to a man of means, and if she can't find a man who will give her a home she has a right to be married to a man who will give her a home.

The other side of civil service is to select men competent for the position, and not to give the position out.

In considering an applicant for the job, compare the qualifications of the man with the duties of that business and not his ability in some other direction.

What should be selected because he is capable of performing the duties required, and not because he is a good hand and has many kites or not has nothing to do with the case, in reality, although in position it has much to do with it.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

If they assumed the high and mighty attitude toward "nationals" of that country.

Countries more remote will have to depend on treaties for the protection of their people in China. However ample their naval and military powers, these are not at hand, and the Chinese know that. But China, it is conceded, has made some progress toward civilization, and the existing conditions in China, and a revision of these in keeping with the present-day conditions is no more than reasonable, provided China can set up some authority competent to speak for the country and to enforce compliance with its undertakings.

The agreement made at the conference was specifically aimed to prevent any such policy of encroachment. If Japan is now prepared to waive special concessions, and deal with China as though it were a nation on an equal basis, as well as in name, the fear of any foreign country breaking up China or conquering China can be dismissed. No other Power is suspected of such intention, and no other country is so situated that it could carry out such a plan.

It does not follow that other Powers can deal with China on precisely the same basis as Japan, or that they can do so without some loss of their relationship with that country.

It is notable in that connection that Chinese mobs have not been raiding Japanese settlements, and that there are no reports of Japanese flocking out of China. Yet Japanese interests in China are more widespread than those of any other foreign race, and the occupation which brought about the Washington conference might be said to have made the Japanese unique beyond all others among the Chinese people. The moral is plain. Even a Chinese mob knows better than to attack a Japanese colony; and with all their swelling confidence, the Cantonese leaders are not inviting a war with Japan, which they quite evidently fear.

B.C. ATTORNEY GETS PERSONAL BEFORE BOARD

Twice Draws Sir Henry Thornton into Railway Rates Hearing

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—Twice during the course of the railway commission hearing Thursday, Alastair Fraser, Canadian attorney, was called to the witness stand by Sir Henry Thornton, chairman of the commission for enforcement purposes, and the offer was accepted by the committee.

He said pay all the interests of its business.

When the question came up for hearing, Chief Commissioner McKeown said he could not consent to having Mr. Fraser called, whereupon Mr. Fraser, who was not present in the records, but asked the British Columbia lawyer to be allowed to add evidence upon which he based his findings in Chicago.

Wednesday has been used as the day upon which the administration of the law will be against the Canadian Pacific railway and grants of evidence relating to the Canadian Pacific railway land grants as evidence.

Sir Henry had said, according to Mr. McKeown, that the Canadian Pacific had United States rates it's own.

Liquor Law Enforcement Controversy is Settled

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2.—Settlement of the controversy between the Winnipeg Commission and the Manitoba government as to the responsibility for the enforcement of the liquor laws in city was effected this afternoon, when the government offered to pay $1,000 to the commission for enforcement purposes, and the offer was accepted by the committee.

The man, Vincent Michalek, fired five bullets into the head of his former employer, Monday night, when they quarreled at an elevated station, was his former sweetheart, he said. He was a friend with other men, he said, but he had no connection with them.

But Michalek easily insisted that he had spent $100.00 on the air in his efforts to collect the $1,000.00 he had agreed to pay.

Wednesday was the day he had been

Wednesday was

All at Sea

© 1927 by NEA SERVICE INC.

Carry on
Carolyn Wells

A low knock at the door heralded the approach of Inspector Bancock.

WHAT HAS GONE BETCHA?
Inspector Bancock and Captain Folsom were swimming with a party of friends at Ocean Grove, New Jersey, last Saturday, when they had all been struck down with a fever. A doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounced him to be dead.

Folsom's companions had last night learned that Miss HELEN BAINABY and Captain MARY BROWN had been stricken down, and that Captain Folsom had died last night, naming next Miss NELL BROWN, who was one of a party including the doctor, the nurse, ROBERTICA FAIR and his fiance, ROBIN CHYDON SEARS.

It is the second straight Folsom's sister, ANASTASIA, in New York.

The startling announcement is made that Folsom had never been in the ocean—stranded to death.

ROSS, the dead man's wife, is continuing to see Neville, who was Folsom's friend.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Why—why, yes sir—so far as I know," said Ross.

"Now, Mr. Ross, you know about all there is to know of your wife's past life," said Inspector Bancock. "But we may be ignorant of the relationships between the two of you."

"Ross departed, and Folsom summed him up as 'well trained, but he listened to the doctors, especially in their diagnosis and decisions.'

"But it's preposterous," said Potter, the medical examiner. "In all my life I have never seen a man die in such a way, who, whenever I asked him, said he was healthy."

"Why did you add 'personally'?" said the other.

"It is a personal question," said Folsom.

"They had business connections, sir?"

"They may or may not have been, always seems. I know nothing of his business, but he was in the office, of course. But of my own knowledge, having seen Mr. Folsom and his other friends, I am friendly and, as I put it, personal, although I have no personal or trusted friends. If you are suggesting Neville, of course."

"Somebody has mentioned the idea of suspicion!" Don't overreact," said Ross.

"No sir," and Ross again put on his look of quiet, respectful serenity.

Dixon said little more to him. His first thought was of Mrs. Folsom's estate, and Ross immediately produced it from his pocket and passed it over.

The detective wanted to quin him further, but he found that he had to hold any sort of an investigation that belonged by right to the police.

He had to go to the vault of the bank, the value a low knock at the door of Inspector Bancock, a Lieutenant detective and a medical examiner.

For a moment he hesitated, then decided to remain, and partly because, in his estimation, he was the only one who could go to the doctor, he went in to see the doctor in turn with the victim, and inconsequently sat in a corner, while the two men discussed the case.

The two doctors conferred about the body, while the Inspector listened to the story as related by the doctor.

Then, as Inspector Folsom, seeing no chance for hunting down clues in the victim's past, turned to the doctor in turn with the victim, and inconsequently sat in a corner, while the two men discussed the case.

"Who is the doctor?" asked Dixon, as matters proceeded.

"He is the son of the valet of the dead man," Dixon said.

"Nothing but bad news," said Ross, not being addressed, and he went to the door.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

"Well," Folsom remarked, "as questions must be asked, where is the man who is to be buried?"

"Who is the man?" asked Dixon.

"Ross, not being addressed, said no more.

Read 'Classified' Ads—Conveniently Arranged for Bulletin Classified Ad Readers

Edmonton Bulletin

Alberta's Oldest Newspaper

Telephone (Private Exchange) 1024
Covers all departments

NIGHT CAFE

Sports Editor

Editorial Staff

Business Staff

Classified Ad Photo

9324

CLASSIFICATIONS AND POSITIONS

1-ARTISTS

2-MARSHALS

3-DEATHS

4-PERSONALS

5-ADVISERS

6-CARD OF THANKS

7-FEDERAL DIRECTORS

8-EMPLOYMENT

9-EXPERIMENTAL WORK

10-PHOTOGRAPHERS

11-FOOD

12-REPAIRS

13-ADVERTISING WANTED

14-AGENTS WANTED

15-AGENTS WANTED—MALES

16-AGENTS WANTED—FEMALES

17-AGENTS WANTED—FEMALES

18-PERSONALS

19-PURCHASED ROOMS

20-PURCHASED HOUSES

21-PURCHASED HOUSES

22-PURCHASED HOUSES

23-PURCHASED HOUSES

24-PURCHASED HOUSES

25-PURCHASED HOUSES

26-PURCHASED HOUSES

27-PURCHASED HOUSES

28-PURCHASED HOUSES

29-PURCHASED HOUSES

30-PURCHASED HOUSES

31-PURCHASED HOUSES

32-PURCHASED HOUSES

33-PURCHASED HOUSES

34-PURCHASED HOUSES

35-PURCHASED HOUSES

36-PURCHASED HOUSES

37-PURCHASED HOUSES

38-PURCHASED HOUSES

39-PURCHASED HOUSES

40-PURCHASED HOUSES

41-PURCHASED HOUSES

42-PURCHASED HOUSES

43-PURCHASED HOUSES

44-PURCHASED HOUSES

45-PURCHASED HOUSES

46-PURCHASED HOUSES

47-PURCHASED HOUSES

48-PURCHASED HOUSES

49-PURCHASED HOUSES

50-PURCHASED HOUSES

51-PURCHASED HOUSES

52-PURCHASED HOUSES

53-PURCHASED HOUSES

54-PURCHASED HOUSES

55-PURCHASED HOUSES

56-PURCHASED HOUSES

57-PURCHASED HOUSES

58-PURCHASED HOUSES

59-PURCHASED HOUSES

60-PURCHASED HOUSES

61-PURCHASED HOUSES

62-PURCHASED HOUSES

63-PURCHASED HOUSES

64-PURCHASED HOUSES

65-PURCHASED HOUSES

66-PURCHASED HOUSES

67-PURCHASED HOUSES

68-PURCHASED HOUSES

69-PURCHASED HOUSES

70-PURCHASED HOUSES

71-PURCHASED HOUSES

72-PURCHASED HOUSES

73-PURCHASED HOUSES

74-PURCHASED HOUSES

75-PURCHASED HOUSES

76-PURCHASED HOUSES

77-PURCHASED HOUSES

78-PURCHASED HOUSES

79-PURCHASED HOUSES

80-PURCHASED HOUSES

81-PURCHASED HOUSES

82-PURCHASED HOUSES

83-PURCHASED HOUSES

84-PURCHASED HOUSES

85-PURCHASED HOUSES

86-PURCHASED HOUSES

87-PURCHASED HOUSES

88-PURCHASED HOUSES

89-PURCHASED HOUSES

90-PURCHASED HOUSES

91-PURCHASED HOUSES

92-PURCHASED HOUSES

93-PURCHASED HOUSES

94-PURCHASED HOUSES

95-PURCHASED HOUSES

96-PURCHASED HOUSES

97-PURCHASED HOUSES

98-PURCHASED HOUSES

99-PURCHASED HOUSES

100-PURCHASED HOUSES

101-PURCHASED HOUSES

102-PURCHASED HOUSES

103-PURCHASED HOUSES

104-PURCHASED HOUSES

105-PURCHASED HOUSES

106-PURCHASED HOUSES

107-PURCHASED HOUSES

108-PURCHASED HOUSES

109-PURCHASED HOUSES

110-PURCHASED HOUSES

111-PURCHASED HOUSES

112-PURCHASED HOUSES

113-PURCHASED HOUSES

114-PURCHASED HOUSES

115-PURCHASED HOUSES

116-PURCHASED HOUSES

117-PURCHASED HOUSES

118-PURCHASED HOUSES

119-PURCHASED HOUSES

120-PURCHASED HOUSES

121-PURCHASED HOUSES

122-PURCHASED HOUSES

123-PURCHASED HOUSES

124-PURCHASED HOUSES

125-PURCHASED HOUSES

126-PURCHASED HOUSES

127-PURCHASED HOUSES

128-PURCHASED HOUSES

129-PURCHASED HOUSES

130-PURCHASED HOUSES

131-PURCHASED HOUSES

132-PURCHASED HOUSES

133-PURCHASED HOUSES

134-PURCHASED HOUSES

135-PURCHASED HOUSES

136-PURCHASED HOUSES

137-PURCHASED HOUSES

138-PURCHASED HOUSES

139-PURCHASED HOUSES

140-PURCHASED HOUSES

141-PURCHASED HOUSES

142-PURCHASED HOUSES

143-PURCHASED HOUSES

144-PURCHASED HOUSES

145-PURCHASED HOUSES

146-PURCHASED HOUSES

147-PURCHASED HOUSES

148-PURCHASED HOUSES

149-PURCHASED HOUSES

150-PURCHASED HOUSES

151-PURCHASED HOUSES

152-PURCHASED HOUSES

153-PURCHASED HOUSES

154-PURCHASED HOUSES

155-PURCHASED HOUSES

156-PURCHASED HOUSES

157-PURCHASED HOUSES

158-PURCHASED HOUSES

159-PURCHASED HOUSES

160-PURCHASED HOUSES

161-PURCHASED HOUSES

162-PURCHASED HOUSES

163-PURCHASED HOUSES

164-PURCHASED HOUSES

165-PURCHASED HOUSES

166-PURCHASED HOUSES

167-PURCHASED HOUSES

168-PURCHASED HOUSES

169-PURCHASED HOUSES

170-PURCHASED HOUSES

171-PURCHASED HOUSES

172-PURCHASED HOUSES

173-PURCHASED HOUSES

174-PURCHASED HOUSES

175-PURCHASED HOUSES

176-PURCHASED HOUSES

177-PURCHASED HOUSES

178-PURCHASED HOUSES

179-PURCHASED HOUSES

180-PURCHASED HOUSES

181-PURCHASED HOUSES

182-PURCHASED HOUSES

183-PURCHASED HOUSES

184-PURCHASED HOUSES

185-PURCHASED HOUSES

186-PURCHASED HOUSES

187-PURCHASED HOUSES

188-PURCHASED HOUSES

189-PURCHASED HOUSES

190-PURCHASED HOUSES

191-PURCHASED HOUSES

192-PURCHASED HOUSES

193-PURCHASED HOUSES

194-PURCHASED HOUSES

195-PURCHASED HOUSES

196-PURCHASED HOUSES

197-PURCHASED HOUSES

198-PURCHASED HOUSES

199-PURCHASED HOUSES

200-PURCHASED HOUSES

201-PURCHASED HOUSES

202-PURCHASED HOUSES

203-PURCHASED HOUSES

204-PURCHASED HOUSES

205-PURCHASED HOUSES

206-PURCHASED HOUSES

207-PURCHASED HOUSES

208-PURCHASED HOUSES

209-PURCHASED HOUSES

210-PURCHASED HOUSES

211-PURCHASED HOUSES

212-PURCHASED HOUSES

213-PURCHASED HOUSES

214-PURCHASED HOUSES

215-PURCHASED HOUSES

216-PURCHASED HOUSES

217-PURCHASED HOUSES

218-PURCHASED HOUSES

219-PURCHASED HOUSES

220-PURCHASED HOUSES

221-PURCHASED HOUSES

222-PURCHASED HOUSES

223-PURCHASED HOUSES

224-PURCHASED HOUSES

225-PURCHASED HOUSES

226-PURCHASED HOUSES

227-PURCHASED HOUSES

228-PURCHASED HOUSES

229-PURCHASED HOUSES

230-PURCHASED HOUSES

231-PURCHASED HOUSES

232-PURCHASED HOUSES

233-PURCHASED HOUSES

234-PURCHASED HOUSES

235-PURCHASED HOUSES

236-PURCHASED HOUSES

237-PURCHASED HOUSES

238-PURCHASED HOUSES

239-PURCHASED HOUSES

240-PURCHASED HOUSES

241-PURCHASED HOUSES

242-PURCHASED HOUSES

243-PURCHASED HOUSES

244-PURCHASED HOUSES

245-PURCHASED HOUSES

246-PURCHASED HOUSES

247-PURCHASED HOUSES

248-PURCHASED HOUSES

249-PURCHASED HOUSES

250-PURCHASED HOUSES

251-PURCHASED HOUSES

252-PURCHASED HOUSES

253-PURCHASED HOUSES

254-PURCHASED HOUSES

255-PURCHASED HOUSES

256-PURCHASED HOUSES

257-PURCHASED HOUSES

258-PURCHASED HOUSES

259-PURCHASED HOUSES

260-PURCHASED HOUSES

261-PURCHASED HOUSES

262-PURCHASED HOUSES

263-PURCHASED HOUSES

264-PURCHASED HOUSES

265-PURCHASED HOUSES

266-PURCHASED HOUSES

267-PURCHASED HOUSES

